

The Tanzania Police Force's Commissioner of Operations pays a visit to GGML

David Nzaligo, the Senior Legal Counsel for GGML (left), briefs CP Awadhi Juma, the Commissioner of Operations for the Tanzania Police Force (right), when he visited the company's office in Geita.

In an effort to strengthen relations with Geita Gold Mining Limited (GGML), the Commissioner of Operations for the Tanzania Police Force, CP Awadhi Juma, visited the company's offices in Geita recently.

During his visit, the Commissioner of Police was briefed on the security, safety, community, and mining operations at GGML and toured some of the Company's mining operations.

"On behalf of the Inspector General of the Police Force, Camillus Wambura, I am delighted to visit your offices today because the excellent work you've done in this country is remarkable. GGML's investment has been a driver for the country's economic growth," he stated.

In addition, the Commissioner alluded to a new Memorandum of Understanding that GGML plans to renew with the police force in March of next year in order to continue providing security services at the mine.

"I am reassuring GGML that the Police Force has a large number of devoted officers who are competent and effective at performing their security duties at the Mine site. Please allow us to use them appropriately for our mutual benefit, and if any issues arise, let's communicate," he added.

During the Commissioner's visit, GGML's Operations Manager, Wayne Louw, confirmed that they were prepared to extend their MoU with the Police and praised their diligence in providing security services.

"We much appreciate your visit today, which continues to strengthen our relationship with the Police Force. In fact, the police force has been instrumental in curbing crimes and incidents at our mine site," he said.

GGML has been a beacon of investment in the community since its inception in 2000, with the main priorities being health, education, water, roads, income generation projects and many other social projects aimed at improving the social welfare of the host community.

Earlier this month, the Company was recognized at the Taxpayer's Appreciation Day organized by the Tanzania Revenue Authority (TRA) where the Company scooped awards as the most compliant taxpayer in the mining industry and for outstanding quantum of exported goods value for the financial year 2021/2022.