

AngloGold Ashanti presents awards to GGML's photography competition winner

GGML Managing Director Terry Strong (centre) presents the 9ct pins to photo competition winner Eric Rumbagi, who works as a Supervisor- Emergency Response. From left to right are the GGML's Senior Manager HSE & T Dr Kiva Mvungi, AngloGold Ashanti's Vice President for Human Resources Africa BU, Wendall Naidoo. On the far left is GGML's Senior Manager of HR, Charles Masubi.

Following the announcement of the results of the Geita Gold Mining Limited (GGML) photo competition earlier this year, Mr Erick Rumbagi, Supervisor - Emergency Response at GGML, received his prizes. Mr Rumbagi, who was announced as the 1st place winner, was presented with beautiful 9ct gold pins and gift vouchers* worth US$50.

GGML Managing Director, Terry Strong, who presented the award, praised Erick for his dedication and commitment to his work.

“Geita Gold Mine is proud of you Eric. We are delighted that you have also demonstrated your photographic skills and abilities. I am told here that you also led your team to extinguish the fire on one of our machines (Caterpillar dozer D 10 T (DZ108) at Nyamulilima open cast mine,” said Terry Strong.

Commenting on the award, Eric said he was grateful for the recognition and felt blessed to be working for a reputable company like AngloGold Ashanti.

“The photo I shared was all about encouraging employees and contractors to work together. Even looking at the incident that happened at Nyamulilima, it was the team spirit that made us react immediately and extinguish the fire before the machine was damaged,” he said, appreciating the company’s initiative to recognise him and his colleague Raymond Makundi.

Eric Rumbagi (far right) receives his smart luggage back pack from GGML managing director Terry Strong (second from right), who thanked him for his professionalism in leading his team to limit fire damage to the company's equipment. Also pictured are Simon Shayo, AngloGold Ashanti's Vice President of Sustainability, Tanzania & Ghana (far left) alongside GGML's Senior Manager HSE & T Dr Kiva Mvungi.

Eric Lumbagi's winning photo.